Schools:

Whether public, private, charter, or home-school, staff offers presentations throughout the school year and during summer months for summer youth group programs, ideal for students of all ages.

Presentations and hands-on activities for solid waste and recycling education can be tailored to support the State's Academic K-12 Standards for teaching and learning inside and outside the classroom.

We strive to engage students with information and activities that involve their eyes, ears, hearts and hands -- sharing tools for them to think critically about how their lifestyle choices impact our lives, resources and the future of our community.
